ABSTRACT

A method for correlating an electronic mail message with related (e.g., reply or forwarded) electronic mail messages is disclosed. When a user initiates a reply to an electronic mail message on an electronic mail system, the system checks for reply or 5   other (e.g., forwarded) messages which are related to the original electronic mail message and are received by the user at a later time.